TO THE

RIGHT HONOVRABLE

Thomas Adams Lord Mayor, and to the Right Worshipfull the Sheriffes and the Aldermen his brethren, and the rest of the Common-Councell.

Read in the Book of Nehemiah, that when the wall of ferusalem was in building, the builders met with so much opposition, that they were forced to build with their meapons in one hand, and with their working tools in the other. They had enemies from without, and they had secret enemies amongst themselves. They met with many discouragements; but God carried them through all, and at last they finished the wall to the consustion of their enemies, and the rejoycing of their friends. Nehemiah's condition is our condition. The Discipline and Government of the Church, is to the Church as a wall is to a City. A City without wals is exposed to every enemy: so is the Church without a Government. This wall is now in building: the Parliament (blessed be God) hath contributed very much to this building; but yet we meet with mountains of opposition, and with many discouragements. Our enemies say, What doe these feeble Presbyterians meane; will they fortise themselves; will they make an end in a day? will they revive the stones out of the heaps of the rubbish which are burnt? Even that which they build, if a Fox goe up, he shall even break down their stone-wall. Our enemies also raise false reports to weaken the hands of the builders, and to make us afraid, as they did, Neh. 6.6.10. They fay, that the Presbyterian Government (which is the Government that comes neerest the Word, and the Government of the best Reformed Churches) will prove Tyrannicall, and Episcopall. And that it is better to be under one Bishop then under a hundred. But we answer, as Nehemiah did, Neh. 4. 4. Hear o our God, for we are despised; and turn their reproachupon their own head. And as Neh. 6.9. Now therefore, ô our God, strengthen our hands. But that which is worser then this, is; that our seeming friends seek to undermine us, and to terrifie us, and fay, as Neh. 4. 11. They shall not know, neither see, till we come in the midst among them, and slay them, and cause the work to cease. And others are ready to discourage us, and say as it is, Neh. 4.10. And Judah Said, The strength of the bearers of burdens is decayed, and there is much rubbish, so that wee are not able to build the wall. It is impossible (fay fome) to purge our Churches according to the rule, they are so full of rubbish, and therefore it is better and fafer to study Separation from, rather then Reformation of our Churches. But yet notwithstanding all these oppositions, and discouragements, I doubt not but God Almighty will in his due time finish this wall of his, and so perfect his own work, that all the enemies thereof shall cast down their eies, and perceive that this work was wrought of our God, Neh. 6.16.

For the effecting of this blessed work, God hath raised us up a happy Parliament. And also God hath raised you up (Right Honourable, Right Worshipfull, and the rest of the Common Councell) and hath railed up your spirits to strengthen our hands to this work, and to build the wall together with us, (each of us in our places) that so the Church may no longer lye waste, and open to all Errors and Hèresies, and that we may be no longer a reproach to all other reformed Churches. This work by your help will quickly bee finished, as it is written, Neh. 4.6. So we built the wall, and all the wall was joyned together unto the half thereof, for the people had a minde to the work.

The times wherein you live are indeed very troublesome: but be not discouraged; for it is foretold, Dan. 9.25. That the wall of Ferusalem shall be re-built, even in troublous times. And let me say to you as Mordecai to Esther, Esther 4. 14. Who knoweth whether God hath not raised you up to be Mayor, to be Sheriffs, Aldermen, and Common Councell men for such a time as this is? Go on courageously, and God will trouble those that trouble you, and bring good to you, and to the Church out of these troubles. We reade of the Pool of Bethesda, that when the water was troubled, then it became a healing water. The untroubled water, was an unhealing water. So will God doe with you; he will make the troubled waters of the Sanctuary to become healing waters: Infomuch as we all shall fay, Periisemus nisi periisemus; We should have been undone had we not been undone. Onely be strong and of a good courage: I say it again, be strong and of a good courage. I say it the third time (for fo did God to foshua in 4 verses, foshuah 1.6,7,8,9. Be strong of a good courage. The Lord hath made you instruments to doe much good for Church and State; the fame God make you every day more and more inftrumentall.

And be not terrified and dismayed because of the many Heresies and Errors that are in the City. For as when the wall of Fernsalem was once built, all their enemies did immediately vanish into nothing, Neh. 6.16. So when the wall of the Church shall be once erected, I doubt not but these prodigious errours will all vanish.

And as when the Sun ariseth, all wilde beasts goe to their dens; so when the bright Sun of Christs kingly government shall appear in our Horizon, I trust all these beastly errours will betake themselves to their dens of obscarity and oblivion. It was said of Augustus, that when he was first Emperour he found Rome in a poor condition, but he lest it in a glorious condition; Invenit lateritiam, sed reliquit marmoream. My prayer shall be (and oh that God would hear me!) that you may be able to say, When I was first Mayor, or first Sheriffe, or first Common-councell man, I found the City a City full of division, full of profanenesse, full of errors and heresies; but now I shall leave it full of truth, full of holinesse, and a City at unity within it selfe. Inveni lateritiam, reliqui marmoream.

For the better bringing of this to passe, you did lately renue your solemne League and Covenant; at which time this ensuing Sermon was preached. Since which time, not only the Sermon, but the Preacher of it, hath undergone many harsh and bitter censures. It is the wickednesse of these dayes to build their own designes upon the ruine of other mens good name. But surely God will never prosper such bloody practises. It is said of Antiochus, a vilde person, Dan, 11.28. That his heart shall be against the holy Covenant. We have many amongst us, that in this are like unto Antiochus, whose hearts, tongues, and hands, are not only against our solemne League and Covenant; but against all that preach for it, or write in the desence of it.

There

There is indeed a Covenant that some do much contend for, and make the very form of a particular Church, without which a Church cannot be a true Church, which is called a Church-covenant. For my part, I conceive that who soever shall fay, that a Church-covenant (I meane an oath expressed by formal words) is an ordinance of Christ, and necessary to the very being of a visible Church; doth not only un-church most of the Churches of Fesus Christ, but doth also set up his own invention for an ordinance of Christ. In the New Testament we reade of no such Church-oath at the admission of Members. And there is no place in the old Testament (for ought I could ever reade) that speaks of a Church-oath to be taken at our admission into Church-fellowship. Indeed we have mention made of a Nationall Covenant, and of the Covenant of grace, and of subscribing with our hands unto the Lord. But what are these to a Church-oath; without which, no man is to be accounted a Church-member, or to have right to the feales of the covenant of grace? To urge this as an Ordinance of Christ, is to set our posts by Gods posts, and our threshold by Godsthreshold, Ezek. 43.8. But if I should expatiate any further in this point, I should exceed the limits of an Epistle, and therefore I forbear.

My hearty defire is, That this Covenant which you have now taken the second time, may be carried about you in continual remembrance. And that it may serve in stead of a thousand Arguments to make you zealously serviceable, to God, to Church, and State. It is reported of Theseus, that he was so taken with the wonderfull works of Hercules, that he could not sleep for thinking of the wonders of Hercules; and when he slept, he dreamt of Hercules wonders; and was never satisfied till he had imitated him in working wonderfull things also. And it is also related of Themistocles, that he had alwayes in his thoughts by night and by day, the victories of Miltiades, and this made him insatiable till he had imitated him. Oh that you would thus deale with the Covenant! That you would think of it in your bed, in your closets, in your walks; and think of what particulars you have sworn unto, and never leave thinking untill you have sully performed your Oath and Covenant. And if you keep Covenant with God, the great God will keep Covenant with you, and all the blessings of the Covenant which are mentioned in the book of God, which is the book of the Covenant, shall be your portion for ever and ever. The great danger of Covenant-refusing, and Covenant-breaking.

2 TIM. 3.3. -Truce-breakers; or, Covenant-breakers.

Ou are here met this day, to humble your foules before the Lord, and to renue your folemne League and Covenant; I fay, to renue it; and take it the fecond time. It is no unusuall thing for the people of God to repeat and reiterate their Vows and Covenants. The great and folemne vow which we made to God in Baptisme, is renued every time we come to the Lords Supper. And upon every Fast day wee binde our selves anew to God by Covenant. The people of Israel entred into covenant, Ezra 10.3. And the same people(as Chronologers observe) did re-engage themselves in the fame Covenant, Neh. 10. The Scripture tels us, that Almighty Neh. 1.1. God did * fix times make one and the same covenant with A- * Gen. 12.3.7. braham; and sware the same covenant twice to Isaac, Gen. 26.4.34. And therefore bleffed be the great God who hath put it into your hearts to engage your felves a second time into a Nationall Covenant.

There are fix reasons to justifie this dayes solemnity before Six Reasons to God and all that require satisfaction about it.

I. Because this Nationall Covenant hath been a long time as nuing of the it were dead and buried and quite forgotten amongst most Compare Ezra 7.7. with 13.15. 15. 18. 17.7,8. Gen. 22.18.

justifie the repeople,

people. And therefore it is high time to raise it out of the grave of forgetfulnesse: and I hope this day will be to the Covenant as a Resurrection from the dead.

2. Because of the great scorn and contempt that is cast upon it by divers sorts of people. The Malignants call it a conspiracy; others, though not Malignants, yet maligne the Covenant, and call it a snare, a trap, a temptation, and account it a signe of a tender conscience to boggle at it, and of a loose conscience to swallow it without scruple. And therefore to windicate the honour and reputation of the Covenant, and to wipe off the aspersions that are cast upon it, you doe well to take it the second time.

3. Because there are some that do openly professe their sorrow that ever they took it, and would fain recant and retract what they have done. And therefore to manifest that you are still of the same judgement, and that you doe not repent of what you have done, you doe well to take it the fecond time.

4. Because of the pronenesse that is in all men (even the best of men) to break covenant with God. A Covenant indeed is a golden Girdle to tye us fast to God; it is a joyning and gleming our selves to the Lord. The word ogn which signifieth an Oath, comes from Fpx W which signifieth a Hedge. An Oath and Covenant is a strong hedge to keep us from breaking out into disobedience. It is an entring into bond to become the Lords; it is a binding our selves apprentice to God. Voluntas (saith Aquinas) per votam immobiliter firmatur in bonum. But yet notwithstanding, the nature of the best man is very apt to break these bonds, and to run away from his great Lord and Master, to suffer this Hedge to decay, and this golden girdle to loosen and untye, and to disjoyne and unglew himself from God. And therefore it is not only commendable, but very necessary (and for this cause you are met this day) to enter into bond the second time, to binde and inroll your felves again unto the Lord; to make up this hedge, to tye this golden girdle yet fafter, and to joyn and glew your selves once more unto the Lord in a perpetual! Covenant never to be forgotten. It is reported of Bishop Hooper, that when he was at the stake to be burnt, the Officers offered to tye him to the stake: but he said, You need not tye me, for that God that call'd me hither will keep me from stirring; and yet because I am partly slesh, I am willing you should tye me fast, lest I should stir. So may the best Christian here present say: Lord I am carnall, sold under sinne, I have broken those golden cords of the Covenant with which I have tyed my selfe unto thee. Though I am spirit, yet am I slesh also. And therefore I come to binde my selfe anew. As Dalilah dealt with Sampson, &c. so do I desire to deale with my self, and to tye my self yet safter and safter to God, if by any meanes I might be kept sirme to him.

5. Because of the many glorious deliverances and salvations which God hath vouchsafed unto us. For since June last, we have had about 60 considerable blessings and mercies, which all are as 60 Arguments to call upon us not only to renue our thankfulnesse, but our Covenant also. Thus the people of Israel, when God had delivered them out of Egypt; renued their Covenant at Horeb, Exod. 19. And when they were delivered from their Wildernesse-enemies, Deut. 29: And the same people did afterwards, when God had given them the possession of Canaan, re-oblige themselves by a co-

6. Because of the sad condition the Church of God is in at this time. For though God hath given us glorious victories over our enemies, yet the Churches of Christlye desolate, Church-reformation is obstructed, Church-Discipline unsetled, Church-divisions increased. The famous City of London is become an Amsterdam, Separation from our Churches is countenanced, Toleration is cried up, Authority lyeth asleep. And therefore it is high time to take the Covenant again, that so you may endeavour with renued strength, as one man, vigorously and courageously, for the setling of the tottering Ark according to the sphere of capacitie in which God hath put you. You shall reade in Scripture, that the people of God did never any great service for the Church till they renued their Covenant; and you shall never read but that they did very great and glorious services for the Church, after the renuing of their covenant with God. In Zerubbabels time the Temple-work ceased for many yeares; but after Ezra and Nehemiah caused the people to enter into covenant with God, it went on prosperously and uninterruptedly. What samous things did the people of God after Jehojada had drawn them into a covenant! 2 Kings I I.7.18. All the people of the Lord ment into the house of Baal, and brake it downe, his Altars and his Images brake they in pieces throughly, &c. The like we reade of Asa, 2 Chron. 15. 14, 15, 16. and of King Josiah, 2 Chron. 34. 31, 32, 33. And thus I doubt not but you will endeavour to do in an orderly way according to your places.

These are the Arguments to justifie this dayes work before

God to all the Christian world.

To help you in this, fo pious, fo Christian, fo necessary, fo solemne a businesse, I have chosen this Text. In the beginning of the Chapter the Apostle tels us the condition that the Church of God should be in, in the last dayes. This know also, that in the last dayes perilous time shall come. In the second Verse he tels us the reason why these times should be such hard and dangerous times; For men shall be lovers of themselves, covetous, &c. The reason is not drawn from the miferies and calamities of the last times, but from the sins and iniquities of the last times. It is fin and iniquity that makes times truly perilous. Sin, and fin onely, takes away Gods love and favour from a Nation, and makes God turn an enemy to it. Sinne canfeth God to take away the purity and power of his Ordinances from a Nation. Sin makes all the creatures to be armed against us, and makes our own conscience to fight against us. Sin is the cause of all the causes of perilous times. Sin is the cause of our civill warres, 2-Sam. 12. 11. Sin is the cause of our divisions, fames 4.1. Sin is the cause why men fall into fuch dangerous errours, 2 Theff. 2.11. Sin brings fuch kinds of judgements which no other enemy can bring. Sin brings invisible, spirituall, & eternall judgements. It is fix that makes God give over a Nation to a reprobate sense. Sin makes all times dangerous. Let the times be neverso prosperous, yet if they be sinfull times, they are times

2 Chro. 15.1. Ifay 42.24.25. Iudg. 6.13. 1 Sam. 28.15, 16. Rev. 2.5. Job 5.23.

truly dangerous. And if they be not finfull, they are not dangerous though never so miserable. It is sin that makes afflictions to be the fruits of Gods revenging wrath, part of the curse due to sin, and a beginning of Hell. It is sin, and sin only, that imbitters every affliction. Let us for ever look upon fin through these Scripture-Spectacles. The Apostle in four Verses reckons up 19 sins, as the causes of the miseries of the last dayes. I may truly call these 19 fins, Englands Looking-glasse, wherein we may see what are the clouds that ecliple Gods countenance from shining upon us: the Mountains that lye in the way to hinder the settlement of Church-discipline. Even these 19 sins which are as an Iron whip of 19 frings, with which God is whipping England at this day; which are as 19 Fagots, with which God is burning and devouring England. My purpose is not to speak of all these sins: Only let me propound a Divine project how to make the times truly happy, for foul and body. And that is, To strike at the root of all misery, which is fin and iniquity. To repent for, and from all these 19 sins, which are as the Oyl that feedeth, & encreaseth the flame that is now consuming of us. For because men are lovers of themselves, Vique ad contemptum Dei & Reipublica. Because men drive their own defignes not only to the neglect, but contempt of God, and the Common-wealth. Because men are covetous, lovers of the world more then lovers of God. Because they are proud in head, heart, looks, and apparell. Because they are unthankfull, turning the mercies of God into instruments of sin, and making Darts with Gods bleffings to shoot against God. Because men are unholy and heady, and make many covenants, and keep none. Because they are (as the Greek word signieth) Devils, acting the Devils part in accusing the brethren, Aid Godos. and in bearing false witnesse one against another. Because they have a form of Godline se denying the power thereof, &c. hence it is that these times are so sad and bloody. These are thine enemies, ô England, that have brought thee into this desolate condition! These are the sins that will recruit the Kings army, if ever it be recruited: and if ever God lead us back into the wildernesse, it will be because of these sinnes.

And therefore if ever you would have bleffed dayes, you must make it your great businesse to remove these-19 mountains, and to repent of these land-devouring, and soul-destroying abominations.

At this time I shall pick out the first, and the tenth sin to speak on. The first is felse-love, which is placed in the fore-front; as the cause of all the rest. Selse-love is not only a sin that makes the times perilous, but it is the cause of all those sins that make the times perilous. For because men are lovers of themselves, therefore they are covetous, proud, unholy, &c. The tenth sinne is truce-breaking, and for feare lest the time should prevent me, I will begin with this sinne first.

The tenth fin then is truce-breakers, or, as Rom. 1.33. Covenant-breakers. The Greek word is donordor, which signifieth three things. First such as are forderis nescii, as Beza renders it; or as others, insoderabiles; that is, such as resuse to enter into Covenant. Or secondly, such as are fordistagi, qui patta non servant, (as Estims hath it) or sine fide, as Ambrose; that is, such as break Faith and Covenant. Or thirdly, such as are implacabiles, or as others, sine pace; that is, such as are implacable, and haters of peace.

According to this three-fold sense of the word, I shall gather these three observations.

Doct. 1. That to be a Covenant-refuser, is a sin that makes the times perilous.

Doct. 2. That to be a Covenant-breaker, is a fin that makes the times perilous.

Doct. 3. That to be a peace-hater, or a truce-hater, is a sin that makes the times perilous.

To begin with the first.

Doctathe first.

Doctrine the first. That to be a Covenant-refuser, is a sinne that makes the times perilous. To be sæderis nescius, or insædederabilis. For the understanding of this, you must know that there are two sorts of Covenants. There are devillish and hellish Covenants, and there are godly and religious Covenants. First, there are devillish Covenants, such as Atts 23. 12. and Isaiah 28. 15. such as the holy league (as it was unjustly called) in France against the Hugonites, and that of our Gunpowder powder Traitors in England: fuch are our Oxford Covenants for the destruction of the Parliament, and godly party. Now to refuse to take such Covenants, is not to make the times perilous, but the taking of them makes the times perilous. Secondly, there are godly and religious Covenants; fuch as Jub 31. 1. I have made a Covenant with mine eyes, why then should I thinke upon a maid? Such as Pfal, 119. I have sworne I will perform it, that I will keep thy righteous judgements; such as 2 Chron. 15. 14, And fuch as this is, which you are met to take this day. For you are to sweare to such things which you are bound to endeavour after, though you did not swear. Your swearing is not folum vinculum, but novum vinculum, is not the onely, but onely a new and another bond to ty you to the obedience of the things you sweare unto; which are so excellent and so glorious, that if God give those that take it a heart to keep it, it will make these three Kingdomes the glory of the world. And as one of the Reverend Commissioners of Scotland said when it was first taken in a most solemn manner at Westminster, by the Parliament and the Assembly; That if the Pope should have this Covenant written upon a wall over against him sitting in his chair, it would be unto him like the hand writing to Belshazzar; causing the joints of his loynes to loofe, and his knees to smite one against another. And I may adde, that if it be faithfully and fully kept, it will make all the Devils in hell to tremble, as fearing lest their Kingdome should not long stand. Now then for a man to be an Anticovenanter, and to be such a Covenant-refuser, it must needs be a fin that makes the times perilous.

And the reason is,

Reason. I Because you shall find in Scripture that when any nation did enter into a solemn religious Covenant, God did exceedingly bleffe and prosper that nation after that time; As appeares, 2 Chron. 15. 19. 2 Kings 11. 20. And we have a promise forit, Deut. 29. 12, 13. That thou shouldest enter into Covenant with the Lord thy God, &c. That he may establish thee to day for a people unto himselfe, and that he may be unto thee a God, &r. And therefore to be a Covenant-refuser, is to make our miseries perpetuall, vouchsafe to engage himselfe by Oath and Covenant to be his God, so it is the highest demonstration of mans love to God, to bind himselfe by Oath and Covenant to be Gods. There is nothing obligeth God more to us, then to see us willing to ty and bind our selves fast unto his service. And therefore they that in this sense are Anticovenanters, are sons of Belial; that refuse the yoake of the Lord, that say, as Psalm. 2.3. Let us breake his bands as under, and cast away his cords from us; such as Oderunt vincula pietatis, which is a soul-destroying, and land-destroying sin.

2 Because

Reason 3.

3 Because that the union of England, Scotland, and Ireland, into one Covenant, is the chief, if not the onely preservative of them at this time. You shall find in our English Chroniclers, that England was never destroyed, but when divided within it felf. Our civill divisions brought in the Romans, the Saxons, Danes, and Normans. But now the Anticovenanter, he divides the Parliament within it felf, and the City within it felf, and England against it self; he is as a stone separated from the building, which is of no use to it self, and threatneth the ruine of the building. Jesus Christ is called in Scripture the corner-stone, which is a stone that unites two ends of a building together; Jesus Christ is a stone of union, and therefore they that fow division, and study unjust separation, have little of Jesus Christ in them. When the ten tribes began to divide from the other two tribes, they prefently began to warre one against another, and to ruine one another. The Anticovenanter he divides, and separates, and difunites; and therefore he makes the times perilous.

Vse.

The use is,

with God; and more particularly, those that resule to take this solemne League and Covenant. These are of two sorts.

1. Such as resule it out of Malignity: 2. Such as resule it out of unnecessary sort sort some taking it. As for the first, I will not call your goodnesse and my charity so much in question, as to spend time about them. And for the second, I conceive conceive that those that scruple it, are amongst the number of those that are absent, and therefore I should but idle away precious time to satisfie the objections of those that are not present, to recover satisfaction.

There are some men of whom I may say as the Apostle doth to the Galatians, Gal. 1.6. I marvell that you are so soon removed from him that called you, &c. And as Gal. 4. 15. I beare you record, that if it had been possible, you would have plucked out your own eyes, and given them to me; Am I therefore become your enemy, &c. So may I say of many: I wonder and marvell to see how suddenly they are changed from that good opinion they once had of the Covenant; For I bear the record, that there was a time when they not onely took it willingly, but would have hazarded their very lives in defence of it: How is it then that the Covenant is become an enemy to them, and they unto the Covenant? Surely the change is not in the Covenant, but in the Covenanters. I have much to fay in defence of it, and did say much when it was first taken; which now to repeat will not be usefull, and I believe for the company here present, very unnecessary; and therefore I torbeare.

The second use is to exhort you to be Covenant-takers this day, and to take it with these qualifications.

1. Solemnly, and feriously, and tremblingly; as in Gods presence, Ezra 10.3.

2. With hearty griefe and forrow for all our former Apo-stasses and Covenant-breakings, fer. 50. 4. 5.

3. With judgement and understanding, Neh. 10. 28. rightly informed of the true sense and meaning of every particular.

4. With a full assurance that it is an act very pleasing unto God, and that God is much honoured by it.

5. Freely and cheerfully, as they did, 2 Chron. 15. 14.

6. Faithfully and sincerely, with all your hearts and soules, and with your whole desire; 2 Chron. 15. 12. 2 Chron. 34. 31, 32. with a purpose to joyn your selves to the Lord in a perpetuall Covenant, never to be forgotten. fer. 50. 5.

As for motives to perswade you to the practice of these things, things, and for rules and directions about the manner of taking of it, I shall leave them wholly to my Reverend brother who is to succeed; who will undertake this work fully and at large. My chief aym is at the second doctrine, which is,

Doctrine 2.

That for a Covenant-taker to be a Covenant-breaker, is a fin that makes the times perilons.

For the opening of this point, I must distinguish again of Covenants. There are civill, and there are religious Covenants. Acivill Covenant, is a Covenant between man and man; and of this the text is primarily, though not onely to be understood. Now for a man to break promise and Covenant with his brother, is a land-destroying, and soule devouring abomination. We read 2 Sam. 21. that because Saul had broken the Covenant that foshnah made with the Gibeonites, God sent a famine in Davids time of three yeares continuance; To teach us, that if we falsifie our Word and Oath, God will avenge covenant-breaking, thoughit be forty yeares after. Famous is that text, fer. 34. 17, 18, 19, 20. Because the Princes and the People brake the covenant which they had made with their servants (though but their servants) God tels them. Because ye have not hearkned unto me in proclaiming liberty every one to his brother, &c. Behold, I proclaim liberty for you, saith the Lord to the smord, to the pestilence, and to the famine; and I will make you to be removed into all the Kingdomes of the earth; &c. We read also Ezek. 17. 18, 19, 20. That God tels Zedekiah because he brake the covenant he had made with the King of Babylon, that therefore he would recompence upon his head the oath that he had despised, and the covenant that he had broken, & would bring him to Babylon, and plead with him there for the trespasse which he had trespassed against the Lord. David tels us, Pl. 15. 4. that it is a fin that shuts a man out of heaven. The Turkish histories tell us of a covenant of peace made between Amurath the great Turk, and Ladislaus King of Hungary; and how the Pope absolved Ladislans from his oath, and provoked him to renue the warre. In which war the Turk being put to the worst, and despairing of victory, puls out a paper which he had in his bosome wherein the league was written; and said, O thou God of the Christians, if thou beeft a true God, be revenged of those that without cause have broken the league made by calling upon thy name. And the story saith, that after he had spoken these words, he had as it were a new heart and spirit put into him, and his souldiers, and that they obtained a glorious victory over Ladislaus. Thus God avenged the quarrel of mans covenant. The like story we have of Rodolphus Duke of Suevia, who by the Popes instigation waged war with Henry the fourth Emperour of Germany, to whom he had fworn the contrary. The Pope fent a Crown to him with this Motto: Petra dedit Petro, Petrus diadema Rudolpho; but in the fight it chanced that Rodolphus lost his right hand; and falling fick upon it, he called for it, and faid, Spectate hanc dextram legitima supplicia expendentem, que fidem sacramento munitam, & Henrico Domino meo datam, vobis urgentibus, prater aguum & jus temere violavit. Behold this right hand with which I subscribed to the Emperour, with which I have violated my oath, and therefore I am rightly punished. I will not trouble you in relating the gallant story of Regulus, that chose rather to expose himselfe to a cruell death, then to falsifie his oath to the Carthaginians. The summe of all is, if it be such a crying abomination to break covenant between man and man, and if fuch persons are accounted as the off-scouring of men, not worthy to live in a christian, no not in a heathen Common-weal: If it be a fin that drawes down vengeance from heaven, and excludes a man from heaven; much more for a man to enter into a covenant with the great Jehovah, and to break fuch religious engagement; this must needs be a destroying and souldaning sin. And of such religious covenants I am now to speak

There are two covenants that God made with man, a covenant of nature, and a covenant of grace. The covenant of nature (or of works) was made with Adam, and all mankind in him. This covenant Adam broke, and God presently had a quarrell against him for breaking of it, Gen. 3. 8, 9. And to avenge the quarrell of the covenant, he was thrust out of Paradise; and there was a sword also placed at the East end of the Garden of Eden, to avenge covenant-breaking. And by nature we are all children of wrath, heirs of hell, because of the breach of that covenant. And therefore we should never think of originall sin, or of the sinfulnesse and cursednesse of our naturall condition, but we should remember what a grievous sin Covenant-breaking is.

But after man was fallen, God was pleased to strike a new covenant, which is usually called a covenant of grace, or of reconciliation; a copy of which you shall read, Ezek. 16.7,8,9. This was first propounded to Adam by way of promise, Gen. 3. The Seed of the Woman shall bruise the Serpents head. And then to Abramby way of Covenant, Gen. 17. In thy Seed shall all the nations of the world be blessed. And then to Moses by way of Testament, Exod. 33. It is nothing else but the free and gracious tender of Jesus Christ and all his rich purchases to all the lost and undone sons of Adam, that shall beleeve in him; or, as the phrase is, Isai, 56. 4. that shall take hold of the covenant. Now you must know that Baptisme is a seal of this covenant, and that all that are baptized, doe facramentally at least engage themselves to walk before God, and to be upright; and God likewise engageth himself to be their God. This covenant is likewise renued when we come to the Lords Supper, wherein we bind our selves by a sacramentall oath unto thankfulnesse to God for Christ. Adde further, that besides this generall covenant of grace whereof the Sacraments are feales, there are particular and personall, and family, and nationall covenants. Thus fob had his covenant, fob 20. and David, Pfal. 119. 106. And when he came to be King, he joyned in a covenant with his people, to serve the Lord. Thus Asa, Fehoiada, and Fosiah, &c. Thus the people of Israel had not onely a covenant in circumcision, but renued a covenant in Horeb, & in Moab; and did often again and again bind themselvs to God by vow and covenant. And thus the Churches of the Christians, besides the vow in Baptisme, have many personali and nationali engagements unto God by covenant, which are nothing else but the renovations, and particular applications of that first vow in Baptisme. Of this nature is the covenant you are to renue this day, &c.

Now give me leave to shew you what a sword-procuring, and soul-undoing sinne, this sin of Covenant-breaking is; and ethen threason of it. Famous is that text, Levit. 26. 25. And I will send my sword which shall avenge the quarrell of my covenant. The words in the Hebrew run thus: I will avenge the avengement. In Greek er Sinhow er Sinhow. The Latin, ulcifcar ultionem; which importeth thus much. That God is at open war and at publique desiance with those that break his covenant; he is not onely angry with them, but he will be revenged of them. The Lord hath a controversie with all covenant-breakers, Hof. 4. 1. or as it is, Lev. 26. 23. The Lord will walk contrary to them. In the 29, of Deuter, first God takes his people into covenant, and then he tels them of the happy condition they should bee in if they did keep covenant. But if they did breake couenant, he tels them, verse 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25. That the Lord will not spare him; but the anger of the Lord and his jealousies shall smoak against that man, and all the curses that are written in this book shall lie upon him, and the Lord shall blot out his name from under heaven. And the Lord shall separate him, &c. And when the nations (ball say, Wherefore hath the Lord done thus unto this land? What meaneth the heat of this great anger? Then shall men say, Because they have for saken the covenant of the Lord God of their Fathers, &c. This was the sin that caused God to fend his people of Israel into captivity, and to remove the candlestick from the Asian Churches. It is for this sin that the fword is now devouring Germany, Ireland, and England, &c. God hath sent his sword to avenge the quarrell of his covenant.

The reasons why this sin is a God-provoking sin are,

Because that to sinne against the covenant, is a greater sinne then to sin against a Commandement of God, or to sin against a promise, or to sin against an Ordinance of God. First, it is a greater sin then to break a Commandement of God. For the more mercy there is in the thing we sin against, the greater is the sin. Now there is more mercy in a Covenant, then in a bare Commandement. The Commandement tels us our duty, but gives no power to doe it. But the covenant of grace gives power to doe what it requires to be done. And therefore if it be a hell-procuring sin to break the least of Gods Comman-

dements, much more to be a Covenant-breaker, Heb. 10.28. 29. Secondly, it is a greater sin then to sin against a promise of God, because a Covenant is a promise joyn'd with an oath, it is a mutuall stipulation between God and us. And therefore if it be a great fin to break promise, much more to break covenant. Thirdly, it is a greater fin then to sin against an Ordinance, because the Covenant is the root and ground of all the Ordinances. It is by virtue of the Covenant that we are made partakers of the Ordinances. The Word is the book of the Covenant, and the Sacraments are the Scales of the Covenant. And if it be a sin of an high nature to sin against the book of the Covenant and the seales of the Covenant, much more against the Covenant it selfe. To break covenant is a fundamentall sinne, it raseth the very foundation of Christianity, because the Covenant is the foundation of all the priviledges, and prerogatives, and hopes of the Saints of God. And therefore we reade, Ephes. 2.12. that a stranger from the Covenant is one without hope. All hope of Heaven is cut off where the Covenant is willingly broken. To break covenant is an universall sin, it includes all other fins. By virtue of the Covenant, we tye our selves to the obedience of Gods Commandements, we give up our selves to the guidance of fesus Christ, we take him for our Lord and King. All the promises of this life and that that is to come, are contained within the Covenant. The Ordinances are fruits of the Covenant. And therefore they that forsake the Covenant, commit many sins in one, and bring not only many, but all curses upon their heads. The summe of the first Argument is: If the Lord will avenge the quarrell of his Commandement, if God was avenged upon the flickgatherer for breaking the Sabbath, much more will he be avenged upon a Covenant-breaker. If God will avenge the quarrell of a promise, if the quarrell of an Ordinance: if they that reject the Ordinances shall be punished; Of how much severer punishment shall they be thought worthy, that trample under their feet the blood of the Covenant? If God was avenged of those that abused the Ark of the Covenant, much more will he punish those that abuse the Angell of the Cove-The nant.

The second reason why covenant-breaking is such a Land-Reason 2. destroying sin is, because it is a most solemne and serious thing to enter into covenant with God; a matter of such great weight and importance, that it is impossible but God should be exceedingly provoked with those that slight it and disrespect it. The Vow in Baptisme is the sirft, the most generall and the solemnest vow that ever any Christian took, saith Chrysostome; wherein he doth not only promise, but engage himselfe by covenant in the sight of God and his holy Angels to be the servant of Jesus Christ, and therefore God will not hold him guiltless that breaks this vow. The solemnity & weightinesse of covenant-taking consisteth in three things.

and Earth, who will not be trifled and baffled withall. And therefore what fehosaphat said to his Judges, 2 Chron. 19.6. Take heed what you doe, for ye judge not for men, but for the Lord, who is with you in judgements; wherefore now let the fear of the Lord be upon you, &c. The like I may say to every one that enters into covenant this day. Take heed what you doe, for it is the Lords covenant, and there is no iniquity with the Lord, wherefore nom let the fear of the Lord be upon you. For our God is a holy God, he is a jealous God, he will not forgive your transgressions, nor your sins, as foshua saith, fosh. 24.19.

of great importance. In the Covenant are weighty and of great importance. In the Covenant of grace God ingageth himself to give Christ, and with him, all temporall, spirituall, and eternall blessings, and we engage our selves to be his faithfull servants all our dayes. In this Covenant we oblige our selves to do great matters that neerly concerne the glory of God, the good of our own soules, and the happinesse of three Kingdomes. And in such holy and heavenly things which so neerly concerne our everlasting estate, to dally and trisse must needs incense the anger of the great Iehovah.

3. The manner used both by fewes, Heathen, and Christians, in entring into Cavenant, doth clearly set out the weightinesse of it, and what a horrible sin it is to break it. The custome amongst the fewes will appear by divers texts of Scripture: fer. 34.18. it is said, And I will give the men that have transgressed my covenant, which have not performed the worde of the Covenant which they had made before me, when they cut the Calfe in twain, and passed between the parts thereof. The words they used when they passed between the parts were, So God divide me, if I keep not covenant. Neh. 5.12. Nehemiab took an oath of the Priests, and shook his lap and said, So. God shake out every man from his house, and from his labour, that performeth not this promise, even thus be he shaken out and emptied. And all the Congregation said, Amen. In the 15 of Genesis Abraham divided the Heifer, and shee-Goat, and a Ram, &c. And when the Sun was down, a smoaking furnace and burning lampe passed between these pieces. This did represent Gods presence, saith Clemens Alexandrinus, and it was as if God should say: Behold, this day I enter into covenant with thee, and if thou keepest covenant, I will be as a burning lampe to illighten and to comfort thee: But if thou breakelt covenant, I will be like a smoaking furnace to consume thee. Thus also Exod. 24.6. Moses makes a covenant with Israel. and offers facrifices, and takes the blood of the facrifice and divides it, and half of it he sprinkles upon the Altar, (which represented Gods part) and the other half he sprinkled upon the people, as if he should say, As this blood is divided, so will God divide you if you break covenant. This was the custome amongst the Jewes. Amongst the Romans, Cafa firmabant fordera porca. And when it was divided, the Feciales gave one half to one party, and the other half to the other, and faid, So God divide you asunder if you break this covenant, and let God doe this so much the more by how much he is the more able. Hinc fædus à fædo animali (scilicet porco) diviso. Sometimes they did make covenants by taking a stone in their hands and saying, If I make this covenant seriously and faithfully, then let the great fupiter bleffe me. If not, so let me be cast away from the face of the Gods as I cast away this stone. This was called Jurare per Jovem lapidem. All these things are not empty notions, and metaphoricall shadowes, but reall and substantiall practifes, signifying unto us, That God will, and must (for it stands with his honor to do it) divide and break them in pieces that break covenant with him. This day you are to take a Covenant by the lifting up of your hands unto the most high God, which is a most emphaticall ceremony, whereby we do as it were call God to be a mitnesse and a judge of what we do, and a rewarder or a revenger, according as we keep or break the Covenant. If we keep it, the lifting up of our hands will be as an Evening sacrifice; if we break it, the lifting up of our hands will be as the lifting up of the hands of a Malefa-Etor at the Bar, and procure woe and misery and wringing of

The third reason why God will be avenged of those that Reason 3. are Covenant-breakers, is, because that a Covenant is the greatest obligation, and the most forcible chain that can be invented to tye us to obedience and service. God may justly challenge obedience without covenanting by virtue of creation, preservation, and redemption; he hath made us, and when loft, he hath purchased us with his blood. But being willing more abundantly to manifest his love, and that we might be the more fastned to him, he hath tyed himself to us, and us to him by the strong bond of a Covenant; as if God should fay, Oh ye fons of men, I fee you are rebellious, and sons of Belial, and therefore if it be possible, I will make you fure. I will engage you unto me, not only by creation, preservation and redemption, but also by the right of covenant and affociation. I will make you mine by promise and oath. And furely he that will break these bonds, is as bad as the man possessed with the Devill in the Gospel, whom no chaines could keep fast. When we enter into covenant with God, we take the oath of Supremacy, and swear unto him that he shall be our chief Lord and Governour, and that we will admit of no forein power or jurisdiction, but that God shall be all in all. We likewise take the oath of Allegiance to be his servants and vassals, and that he shall be our Supreame in spirituals and temporals. Now for a Christian that believes there is a God, to break both these oathes of allegiance and supremacy, it is curfed treason against the God of heaven, which surely God will be avenged of. Amongst the Romans, when any Souldier was pressed, he took an oath to serve his Captaine faithfully, and nouso forfake him, and he was called Miler per facramentum: Sometimes one took an oath for all the reft, and the others only faid, The fame oath that A. B. fook the fame do I. And these were called Milites per conjurationem, of milites evolcation And when any fouldier for look his Captain, he had Martial law executed upon him. Thus it is with every Christian: He is a professed souldier of Christine hath taken presse-money, he hath sworn and taken the Sacrament upon it to become the Linds, he is miles per facramenti, & miles per conjurationem. And if he forfake his Captaine and break covenants other great Lord of Hufts will be avenged of him, as it is written, fer. 11.3. Curfed be the man that obeyeth not the words of this covenant. To break covenant is a fin of perjury, which is a fin of a high nature; and if for oathes the Land mourneth, much more for breach of oathes. ... To break covenant is a fin of spiritually adultery; for by covenanting with God we do as it were joyne our selves in mariage to God, as the Hebrew word fignifieth, fer. 50.5. Now to break the mariage knot is a fin for which God may justly give a Bill of divorce to a Nation! To break covenant is a fin of injustice; for by our covenant we do enter as it were into bond to God, and engage our felves as a creditor to his debtor. Now the fin of injustice is a Land-destroying fin.

Reason 4.

The fourth reason why God must needs be avenged of those that are covenant-breakers, is, because it is an act of the highest Sacriledge that can be committed to For by virtue of the Covenant the Lord layer claime to us as his peculiar inheritance, Ezek. 16.8. I smare unto thee, and entred into covenant with thee, and thou became st mine. Ier. 31.33. I will be their God and they shall be my people. It is worthy observation, that in the Covening there is a double surrender, one on Gods part, another on our part. God Almighty makes a furrender of himself, and of his Sonne, and of the Holy Ghoft. Behold, faith God, I am wholly thy Gud; all my power, and wisdome, and mercy, and goodnesse, &c, is all thine, my Son is thine, and all his rich purchases. My spirit is thine and all his graces. This is Gods surrender. On our parts, when we take hold of the Covenant, we make a delivery of our bodies and

1. 1. 10 1 K.

and foules into the hands of God; we choose him to be our Lord and Governour, we refigne up our felves into his hands. Hord we are thine at thy disposing; we alienate our selves from our felves, and make a Deed of gift of our selves, and give thee the lock and key of head, heart, and affections, &c. This is the nature of every religious Covenant, but especially of the Covenant of grace. But now for a Christian to call in as it were his surrender, to disclaime his resignation, to steale away himself from God and to lay claim to himself after his alienation; to fulfill his owne lufts, to walk after his owne wayes, to do what he lifts, and not what he hath covenanted to do, and so to rob God of what is his, this is the highest degree of Sucritedge, which God will never fuffer to go unpunished. And furely if the stick-gatherer, that did but alienate a little of Gods time; and Ananias and Sapphira, that withheld but some part of their estate? and if Belshavear for abusing the confecrated vessels of the Temple were so grievoully punished; how much more will God punish those that alienate themselves from the service of that God to whom they have fworn to be obedient? It is observed by a learned Author, of three famous Commanders of the Romans, that they hever prospered after they had defiled and robbed the Temple of fernfulem. First, Pompey the great, he went into the Sanctum Sanctorum, a place never before entred by any but the High Priest, and the Lord blasted him in all his proceedings after that time. Vt illo qui terram non habuit ante ad victoriam, deesset illi terra ad sepulturam. That he that before that time wanted earth to overcome, had not at last earth enough to bury him withalf. The next was Grassu, who took away 10000 talents of gold from the Temple, and afterwards dyed, by having gold poured down his throat. The third was Cassius, who afterwards killed himself. If then God did thus avenge himself of those that polluted his confecrated Temple; much more will he not leave them unpunished that are the living temples of the Holy Gbost, consecrated to God by a covenant, and afterwards prove facrilegious, robbing God of that worship and service which they have fworn to give him, the because covenant-breakers are reckoned amongst the number of those that have the mark of reprobation upon them. I do not say that they are all Reprobates; yet I say that the Apostle makes it to be one of those sins which are committed by those that are given up to a reprobate minde, Rom. 1.28.

31. The words are spoken of the Heathen, and are to be understood of breaking of covenants made between man and man. But then the Argument will hold a fortiori. If it be the brand of a reprobate to break covenant with man, much more to break a covenant made with the great sehovah by the lifting up of our hands to Heaven.

Reason 6.

The last reason is, because it is a sin against such infinite mercy, such bowels of Gods unexpressible mercy. It is said, fer: 31.32. Which covenant they brake, although I was a Husband to them. That is; Although I had chosen them for my Spouled and married my felf unto them with an everlasting covenant of mercy, and intailed Heaven upon them, vet they have broken my covenant. This was a great provocation. Thus Ezek 16.4,5. When thou wast in thy blood and no eye pitied thee to have compassion upon thee, I said unto thee when thou wert in thy blood, Live ; yea, I said unto thee, Live. It is twice repeated. As if God should say, Mark it O Israel, when no leve regarded thee, then I said unto thee, Live. Behold. faith God, verse 8. Thy time was the time of love! Behold and wonder at it, and I spread my skirt over thee, and covered thy nakednesse: yea, I sware unto thee, and entred into covenant with thee, faith the Lord, and thou became ft mine. And yet for all this thou halt sinned grievously against me. week wee unto thee, faith the Lord God, Ezek 16.23. There is a fivefold mercy in the Covenant, (especially in the covenant of grace) that makes the sinne of covenant-breaking to be so

1. It is a mercy that the great God will youch afe to enterinto covenant with dust and ashes. As David saith andnother case, Is it a sleight matter to be the son in law of a King 3. So may I say, Is it a sleight matter for the Lord of Heaven and Earth to condescend so far as to covenant with his poor creatures. creatures, and thereby to become their debtors, and to make them as it were his equals? When fonathan and David entred into a covenant of friendship, though one was a Kings son, the other a poor Shepherd, yet there was then a kinde of equality between them. But this must be understood warily, according to that text 2 Cor. 1.9. Blessed be God who hath called us into the fellowship of his Son fesus Christ our Lord. He is still our Lord, though in fellowship with us. It is a covenant of infinite condescension on Gods part, whereby he enters into a league of friendship with his people.

2. The mercy is the greater, because this covenant was made after the fall of Adam; after we had broken the first covenant. That the Lord should try us the second time, is not only an act of infinite goodnesse in God, but of infinite mercy. There is a difference between the goodnesse and the mercy of God. Goodnesse may be shewed to those that are not in misery: but mercy supposeth misery. And this was our condition after the breach of the first covenant.

not with Devils. I and

4. This fets out the mercy of the covenant, because it containes such rare and glorious benefits, and therefore it is called a covenant of life and peace, Mal. 2.5. an everlasting covenant; even the sure mercies of David, Esay 55.3. It is compared to the maters of Noah, Esay 54.9. Famous are those two texts, Exod. 19.5,6. Ier. 32. 40,41. Texts that hold forth strong consolation. By virtue of the covenant, Heaven is not only made possible, but certain to all believers, and certain by way of oath. It is by virtue of the covenant that we call God Father; and may lay claim to all the power, wisdome, goodnesse, and mercy, &c. that is in God. As Iehosharhar told the King of Ifrael, to whom he was joyned in covenant, I am as thou art, my people as thy people, my horses as thy burses :- So doth God fay to all that are in covenant with him; My power is thine, my goodnesse is thine, &c. By virtue of this covenant, what soever thou wantest, God cannot deny it thee; if it be good for thee. Say unto God, Lord, thou hast sworne to take away my heart of stone, and to give me a heart of flesh. Thou. Thou hast sworn to write thy law in my heart, thou hast sworn to circumcise my heart, thou hast sworn to give me Christ to he my King, Priest, and Prophet, & . And God cannot but be a covenant-keeper. By virtue of this covenant, God cannot but accept of a poor penitent sinner laying hold upon Christ for pardon, 2 Chron. 7. 14. Jer. 3. 14. Promissahec tuasunt, Domine; & quissalli timet cum promittit ipsa veritas? In a word, we may challenge pardon, and heaven by our covenant; I John 1. 9. God is not only mercifull, but just to forgive us. We may challenge heaven through Christ out of justice.

5. Adde lastly, that the conditions of the Covenant on our parts should be upon such easie termes, therefore it is called a Covenant of Free grace. All that God requires of us, is to take hold of this Covenant; If. 56. to receive this gift of righteousnesse, Rom. 5. to take all Christ as he is tendred in the Covenant. And that which is the greatest confolation of all, God hath promised in his Covenant to do our part forus. Jer. 31. 33,34. Therefore it is called a Testament rather then a Covenant. (In the new Testament the word Statinn is alwayes used by the Apostle, and not our bann) Heaven is conveyed unto the elect by way of Legacie; It is part of Gods Testament to write his law in our hearts, and to cause us to walk in his wayes, &c. Put these things together. Seeing there is such infinite mercy in the Covenant. A mercy for God to enter into Covenant with us, to doe it with us and not the Angels, with us fallen, with us upon such easie termes; and to make such a Covenant, that contains so many, and not only so, but all bleffings here and hereafter in the mombe of it; it must needs be a land-destroying and soul-destroying sin to be a Covenant-breaken. The stoyel with a st. : with End

The use and application of this doctrine is foure-fold,

If it be such a Land-devouring sin to be a Covenant-breaker, let us from hence learn the true sause of all the miseries that have happed unto England in these late yeers. The mombe, out of which all our calamities are come. England hath broken Covenant with God, and now God is breaking England in pieces, even as a Potter breakes a vessell in pieces. God hath sent his sword to avenge the quarrel of his Covenant. As Christ which Vse 1. Of informawhipt the buyers and sellers out of the Temple, with whips made of the cords which they brought to tye their oxen and sheep withall. A Covenant is a cord toty us to God, and now God hath made an iron whip of these cords which we have broken a funder to whip us withall.

We are a nation in Covenant with God, we have the books of the Covenant, the Old and New Testament; we have the feales of the Covenant, Baptisme, and the Lords Supper. We have the Messengers of the Covenant, the Ministers of the Gospell. We have the Angell of the covenant, the Lord Jesus Christ fully and clearly set out before us in the Ministery of the Word. But alas, are not these blessings amongst us, as the Ark was amongst the Philistines, rather as prisoners, then as priviledges; rather in testimonium & ruinam, quam in salutem, rather for our ruine, then for our happinesse? May it not be faid of us, as Reverend Moulin faid of the French Protestants: While they burned us (faith he) for reading the Scriptures, we burnt with zeale to be reading of them: now with our liberty is bred also negligence and disesteem of Gods word? So it is with us. While we were under the Tyranny of the Bishops, oh how fweet was a Fasting-day! how beautifull mere the feet of them that brought the Gospell of peace unto you? How dear and precious were Gods people one to another, &c. But now how are our Fasting-dayes sleighted and vilified? how are the people of God divided one from another, railing upon (in stead of lovnig) one another? And is not the godly Mininistery as much persecuted by the tongues of some that would be accounted godly, as heretofore by the Bishops hands? Is not the Holy Bible by some rather wrested then read? wrested I fay by ignorant and unitable foules, to their own destruction. And as for the seales of the covenant. First, for the Lords Supper; How often have we spilt the bloud of Christ by our unworthy approaches to his Table? and hence it is, that he is now spilling our blood. How hard a matter is it to obtain power to keep the blood of Christ from being profaned by ignorant and scandalous Communicants? and can we think that God will be easily intreated to sheath up his bloody fword, and to cease shedding our blood? Secondly, for the Sacrament Sacrament of Baptisme; How cruell are men grown to their little infants, by keeping of them from the seale of entrance into the Kingdome of heaven, and making their children (their own children) to be just in the same condition with the children of Turks and Infidels? I remember at the beginning of these warres, there was a great fear fell upon godly people about their little children, and all their care was for their preservation, and their safety; and for the continuance of the Gospell to them, &c. But now our little children are likely to be in a worser condition then ever. The Oxford Army labour to steale away the Gospell from them, and the Anabaptist labours to steale away the seale of the covenant of Grace from them; and that which is worser then all, there are some godly people love to have it so. And all this is come upon us as a just punishment of our Baptismall covenant - breaking. And as for Jesus Christ who is the Angell of the covenant: are there not some amongst us that un-god fesus Christ? and is it not fit and equall that God should un-church us, and un-people us? Are there not thousands that have sworne to be Christs servants, and yet are in their lives the Vassals of sin and Satan? And shall not God be avenged of such a nation as this? These things considered, it is no wonder our miseries are so great, but the wonder is, that they are no greater.

Vse 2. Of examination, whether we be covenant-breakers or no.

First for the Covenant we make in Bap-tisme.

The fecond use, is an use of examination.

Dayes of humiliation ought to be dayes of selfe-examination. Let us therefore upon such a day as this is, examine whether we be not amongst the number of those that make the times perilous, whether we be not covenant-breakers? Here I will speak of three covenants: First, of the covenant we made with God in our Baptisme. Secondly, of the covenants which we have made with God in our distresses. Thirdly, and especially of this covenant which you are to renue this day.

First, of the covenant which we made in Baptisme, and renue every time we come to the Lords Supper, and upon our solemn dayes of fasting. There are none here, but I may say of them, The vomes of God are upon you. You are servi nati, empti, jurati; you are the born, bought, and sworn servants of God,

God, you have made a surrender of your selves unto God and Christ. The question I put to you is this: How often have you broke covenant with God? It is said, Isaiah 33. 14. The sinners of Sion are afraid: who shall dwell with everlasting burnings? Who shall dwell with devouring sire, &c. When God comes to a Church-sinner, to a sinner under the Old Testament, much more to a Christian sinner; a sinner under the New Testament: and layeth to his charge his often covenantbreaking, fearfulnesse shall possesse him, and he will cry out. Oh! woe is me, who can dwell with everlasting burnings? our God is a consuming fire; and we are as stubble before him. Who can stand before his indignation? (Nahum 1.6.) Who can abide in the fiercenesse of his anger? When his fury is poured forth like fire, and the rockes are throwne down before him. Who can stand? Of all forts of creatures, a finfull Christian shall never be able to stand before the Lord, when he comes to visit the world for their sins. For when a christian sinnes against God, he fins not only against the Commandement, but against the covenant. And in every fin he is a commandement-breaker, and a covenant-breaker. And therefore whereas the Apolile saith, Tribulation and anguish upon every soule that sinneth, but first upon the few; &c. I may adde; First upon the christian, then upon the few, and then upon the Grecian; because the covenant made with the Christian is called a better covenant; and therefore his fins have a higher aggravation in them. There is a notable passage in Austin, in which he brings the Devill thus pleading with God against a wicked christian at the day of judgement. Equissime judex, judica quod equum est, judica meum esse qui tuus esse noluit post renunciationem; Vt quid invasit pannos meos? Quid apud eum lascivia,incontinentia, &c. quibus ipse renunciaverit? Quid intemperantia,quid gula, quid fastus, quid catera mea? Hac omnia mea post renunciationem invasit. Meus esse voluit, mea concupivit; Indica, equissime judex, quoniam quem tu non dedignatus es tanto pretio liberare, ipse mihi postmodum voluit obligare. That is, Oh thou righteous Judge, give right judgement! Judge him to be mine, who refused to be thine even after he had renounced me in his Baptisme; What had he to doe to wear my Livery? Livery? What had he to doe with gluttony, drunkennesse, pride, wantonnesse; incontinencie; and the rest of my ware? All these things he hath practised since he renounced the devill and all his works. Mine he is, judge righteous judgement; For he whom thou hast not distained to dye for, hath obliged himselfe to me by his sins, &c.

Now what can God fay to this charge of the Devils, but, Take him Devill, seeing he would be thine; take him, torment him with everlasting torments? Cyprian brings in the Devill thus speaking to Christ at the great day of judgement, Ego pro istis quos mecum vides nec alapas accepi, nec flagella sustinui, nec crucem perculi, nec sanguinem fudi, sed nec regnum caleste illis promitto, nec ad paradisum evoco, & tamen se mihi suag; omnia consecrarunt. I have not (saith the Devid) been whipt and scourged, and crucified, neither have I shed my blood for these whom thou seest with me. I do not promise them a kingdome of heaven, &c. and yet these men have wholly confecrated themselves to me and my service. Indeed if the Devill could make such gainfull covenants with us. and bestow such glorious mercies upon us as are contained within the Covenant, our serving of Satan and sinne might have some excuse. But when as his covenant is a covenant of bondage, death, hell, and damnation: and Gods covenant is a covenant of liberty, grace, and eternall happinesse, it must needs be a fin inexcufable, to be willingly and wilfully fuch a covenant-breaker.

Concerning our vowes to God in our distresse.

Secondly, let us examine concerning the vowes which we have made to God in our distresses: in our Personall distresses, and our Nationall distresses. Are we not like the children of Israel of whom it is said, Psal. 78.34. When he slew them, then they sought him, and they returned and enquired early after God, &c. Neverthelesse they did but slatter him with their mouth, &c. for their heart was not right with him, neither were they stedfast in his covenant? Are we not like unto little children, that while they are whipping will promise any thing, but when the whipping is over will persorm nothing? Or like unto Iron that is very soft and malleable while it is in the sire, but when it is taken out of the sire, returns presently fently to his former hardnesse? This was facobs fault: He made a vow when he was in distresse, Gen. 28.22. But he forgat his covenant, and God was angry with him, and chaftifed him in his daughter Dinah, Gen. 34.5. and in his two sons Simeon and Levi. And at last God himself was fain to call to him from Heaven to keep covenant. And after that time God bleffed Iacob exceedingly, Gen. 35.9, 10, 11, 12. We reade of David, Psal. 66.13,14,15. that he professeth of himself, that he would go into Gods house, and pay the vowes which his lips had uttered, and his mouth had spoken when he was in trouble. But how few are there that imitate Davidin this thing?

Thirdly, let us examine our felves concerning the folemne Concerning League and Covenant which we are to renue this day. And the folemne here I demand an answer to these questions.

1. Are there not many amongst us that fcorn it and speak Questions areproachfully of it? That deal with it as the Children of 1/- bout the Corael did with Manna, which at first they did so highly value, venant. as that they could not be kept within doors from gathering of it, no not upon the Sabbath day; but afterwards they came to loathe it as much as ever before they loved it. And do not we deal fo with the Covenant?

2. Are there not some that write against it, and that say Quest. 2. in effect, That the perjury that is committed about it, is rather in taking of it then in breaking of it, and that it was not a right, but a rash oath? which I speak not only to the shame of those that write thus, but also to the shame of those that fuffer fuch things to be written and to go unquestioned.

3. Are there not some that put corrupt glosses upon it, and Quest. 3. deale fulfely in the Covenant? that fay, that by virtue of the Covenant all Ministers are bound to renounce their ministery, (even that ministery which God hath blessed and put his feale unto by the conversion of thousands) and either to take it up again by Ordination from the people; or if we finde no warrant in the Word for that way, then to turn Seekers, and to wait till God send Apostles to ordain Ministers? And yet these men cannot but know that the Parliament in their Ordinance for Ordination of Ministers, have declared, that this is not the meaning of the Covenant. Others there are that fay,

fay, That by virtue of the Covanant no man ought to pay tythes to his Minister unlesse he will incurre the sin of perjury. These men may as well say, That by the Covenant no Tenant ought to pay rent to his Landlord, and that no man ought to keep the laws of the Realm. For we challenge our tythes by virtue of the Laws established, &c. We challenge a sufficient maintenance by Gods law. But as for the tenth part (though there are some that say much out of the Scripture for it) yet we require it as due only by the laws of the Kingdome.

Quest.4.

Quest. 5.

4. Are there not some that deal hypocritically in the Covenant? that take it meerly to serve their own turns, to save their credits, or to fave their estates, or to hide their malignancy? That are like unto the Samaritans, of whom it is reported, that when the fewes were in advertity, they would renounce the Jewish religion and all alliance with them: but when the fewes were in prosperity, then they would pretend kindred, and professe themselves to be of the Iewish Religion. Just so do many Oxford-malignants deal with the Parliament. While we are in prosperity, they are Covenanters, and for the Parliament. But if ever God should bring us again into a low condition, they would quickly appear to be Anti-covenanters and Anti-parliamenters. I have heard a story of a Gaoler, that being required either to take the Covenant, or to leave his place; he consulted with his fellow drunkard about it; and he answered, That he could not deny but that the taking of the Covenant was a very bitter pill: but seeing there was no remedy, his advice was, To swallow it down and not to think on it. And shall not God be avenged of fuch a Nation as this?

But the great question, and that which doth most nearly concerne us that are here, is;

5. Are we not Covenant-breakers? Do we not make the times perilous by our fallifying of our oath and covenant with God?

In our Covenant we swear to fix things.

Six things fworn unto in I. That we will endeavour to be humbled for our own fins the Covenant, and for the fins of the Kingdome. But where shall we finde a mour-

mourner in England for his own abominations, and for the abominations that are committed in the midst of us? It is easie to finde a Censurer of the sins of the Land, but hard to finde a true mourner for the sins of the Land.

Secondly, we swear that me will endeavour to goe before one another in the example of a reall Reformation. But who makes conscience of this part of the Oath? What sin hast thou left, or in what one thing hast thou bin reformed since thou tookest this Covenant? We read, Ezra 10.3. That they entred into Covenant, to put away their wives & their children by them: which was a very difficult and hard duty, and yet they did it. But what bosome sin, what beloved sin, as dear to thee as thy dear wife and children, hast thou left for Gods sake since thou tookest this Oath? I read Nehem. 5.13. that the people took an Oath to make restitution, which was a costly duty, and yet they performed it, saith the Text. But alas! where is the man that hath made restitution of his ill gotten goods. fince he took this Covenant? I reade, 2 Chron. 15. 16. that King Asa deposed his mother Maachah, her, even her, from being Queen, after he had entred into Covenant: and that the people, 2 Kings 11.18. after they had sworn a Covenant brake in pieces all the Altars of Baal thoroughly. But where is this thorough Reformation, this thorough amendment of life? Indeed here is much talk of a Reformation, but little practice of a Reformation. We say we fight for a Reformation; but I fear lest in a little time we should fight away all our Reformation: or if not fight it away, yet we should dispute it away. For now all our religion is turned into Vtrum's, into Questions, infomuch as that there are some that call all religion into question, and in a little while will lose all religion in the crowd of questions. Inter disputandum veritas, & religio amittitur. There was a time not many years agoe, when God did blesse our Ministery in the City, to the Conversion of many people unto God; but now there are many that study more to gain parties to themselves, then to gain souls to God. The great work of Conversion is little thought on. And never so few (if any at all) converted as in these days wherein we talk so much of Reformation. And is this to keep Covenant with God? 3. We

3. We fweare to endeavour to amend the lives, and reforme not only our selves, but all those that are under our charge. But where is this Family-reformation? Indeed I reade of facob, that when he went to perform his vow and covenant, he first reformed his family, Gen. 35.3. And that Joshua resolved (and performed it) for himself and his family to serve the Lord. And so did Fosiah, 2 Chron. 34. And oh that I could adde, And so do we! But the wickednesses committed in our families, proclaim the contrary to all the world. What Noblemans, what Aldermans, what Merchants family is more reformed fince the Covenant, then before? We speak and contend much for a Church-reformation; but how can there be a Church-reformation, unlesse there be first a Family-reformation? What though the Church-worship be pure, yet if the morshippers be impure, God will not accept of the morship? And if families be not reformed, how will your worshippers be pure ? The

4. We swear to endeavour to bring the Churches of God in the three Kingdomes, to the nearest conjunction and uniformity in Religion, confession of Faith, form of Church-government, Directory for worship and catechizing, &c. But are there not some that write against an Vniformity in Religion, and call it an Idoll? Are there not many that walk professedly contrary to this clause of the Covenant? There are three texts of Scripture that people keep the quite contrary way. The first is, Mat . 6.34.31.25 Take no thought what you shall eat, &c. take no thought for to morris. And most people take thought for nothing else. The second text is, Matth. 6.33. Seek ye first the kingdome of God and his righteous nesses. And most peo-ple seek this last of all. The third text is, John 6.27. Labour not for the meat that perisheth, but for the meat that endureth for ever, &c. And most people labour not for the meat that endureth for ever, but for the meat that perisheth. As these three texts are kept, so do many people keep this part of the Oath; for there were never more divisions and differences in the Church, never more difformity, and pleading against Vniformity, then now there is.

5. We swear to endeavour the extirpation of Popery, Pre-lacy, Superstition, Heresie, Schisme, &c. And yet not withstanding there are some that have taken this Oath, that contend earnestly for a Toleration of all Religions: which (as I conceive) is as contrary to this clause of the Covenant as Heaven is to Hell.

6. We swear against a detestable indifferency and Neutral:ty in this cause which so much concerneth the glory of God, &c. And yet how many are there amongst us that are like unto Gallio, that care not what becomes of the cause of God, so they may have peace and quiet? That will not be the backmardest of all, and yet will be sure not to be too forward, for fear left if the times turn, they should be noted amongst the chief of the faction? That are very indifferent which side prevaile, fo they may have their trading again? That fay as the Polititian, That they will be carefull not to come too near the heels of Religion, lest it should dash out his braines: And as the King of Arragon told Beza, That he would made no farther into the sea of Religions then he could safely return back to shoar?

In all these six particulars let us seriously search and try our hearts, whether we be not amongst the number of those that make the times perilous.

The third use is for Humiliation. Let the consideration of our Covenant-breaking, be a heart-breaking consideration to Of Humiliaevery one of us this day. Let this be a mighty and powerfull tion, Argument to humble us upon this day of Humiliation.

There are five considerations that are exceedingly foulhumbling, if God bleffe them unto us.

1. The confideration of the many Commandements of God Five soul-humthat we have often and often broken.

2. The confideration of the breaking of Fesus Christ for our fins, how he was rent and torn for our iniquities.

3. The confideration of the breaking of the bread, and the pouring out of the wine in the Sacrament, which is a heartbreaking motive and help.

4. The broken condition that the Kingdome of England, Scotland, and Ireland, and that Germany is in at this time.

5. The many Vowes and Covenants that we have broken; our Sacrament-Covenants, our Fasting-Covenants, our Sick-bling confide-

bed-covenants. And especially the consideration of our often breaking of our Nationall-covenant which you come this day to renue. This is a fin in Folio, a fin of a high nature: and if ever God awaken conscience in this life, a sin that will lye like a heavie Incuba upon it. A greater sin then a sin against a Commandement, or against an Ordinance. A sin not only of disobedience, but of perjury. A sin of injustice, of spirituall adultery. A sin of Sacriledge. A sin of great unkindnesse. A sin that makes us not only disobedient, but dishonest. For we account him a dishonest man that keeps not his word. A sin that not only every good Christian, but every good Heathen doth abhorre. A fin, that not only brings damnation upon us, but casteth such into horrible disgrace and reproach upon God, that it cannot stand with Gods honour not to be avenged of a Covenant-breaker. Tertullian saith, that when a Christian forsakes his covenant, and the colours of Christ, and turnes to serve as the Devils souldier, he puts an unspeakable discredit upon God and Christ. For it is as much as if he should say; I like the service of the Devill better then the service of God. And it is just as if a souldier that hath waged war under a Captaine, and afterwards forfaking him turnes to another, and after that, leaves this other Captaine and returns to his former Captain. This is to preferre the first Captain before the second. This makes God complaine, fer. 2.4. What Iniquity have your Fathers found in me that they are gone far from me, &c. And in the 11 verse, Hath any Nation changed their Gods, which are yet no Gods? but my people have changed their glory for that which doth not profit. Basil brings in the Devil infulting over Christ, and saying, I never created nor redeemed these men, and yet they have obeyed me, and contemned thee, ô Christ, even after they have covenanted to be thine. And then he addes, Equidem ego istam futuram adversus Christum gloriationem hostis insolentem gravius longe esse statuo quam Gehenna supplicia. That is, I esteem this insulting of the Devill over fesus Christ at the great day, to be more grievous to a true Saint, then all the torments in hell. A faying worthy to be written in letters of gold. Seeing then that covenant-breaking is so great an abomination, the Lord give give us hearts to be humbled for this great abomination this day. And this will be a notable preparation to fit you to the renuing of your Covenant. For we reade that Nehemiah first called his people to fast, before he drew them into a Covenant. According to which pattern you are here met to pray, and fast, and humble your foules for your former covenant-breaking; and then to binde your selves anew unto the Lord our God. As wax when it is melted will receive the impression of a seal, which it will not do before: So will your hearts, when melted into godly forrow for your fins, receive the feal of God abidingly upon them, which they will not do when hardned in fin.

a Covenant-breaker, and a perjured, sacrilegious person?

By no means. For as every failing of a Wife doth not break Answ. the Covenant between her and her Husband; but she is to be accounted a Wife till she by committing adultery break the Covenant. So every miscariage against the Covenant of grace, or against this Nationall covenant, doth not denominate us in a Gcspell-account Covenant-breakers. But then God accounts us according to his Gospel to break covenant, when we do not only sin, but commit fin against the Covenant, when we do not only sin out of meaknesse, but out of wickednesse; when we do not only faile, but fall into fin: when we for sake & renounce the Covenant, when we deale treacherously in the Covenant, and enter into league and covenant with those fins which we have sworn against. When we walk into Anti-covenant paths', and willingly do contrary to what we fwear; then are we perjured, & unjust, and facrilegious, and guilty of all these sins formerly mentioned.

The fourth Use presents unto you a Divine, and therefore a Vse 4. fure project to make the times happy. And that is, Let all Cove- An exhornant-takers labour to be Covenant-keepers. It hath pleased God tation unto put it in your hearts to renue your Covenant. The same God to Covenant keepinable you to keep Covenant. It is faid, 2 Chron. 34.31,32. The ing. King made a covenant before the Lord, &c. And he caused all that were present in Jerusalem and Benjamin to stand to it. And 2 Kings 23.3. The King stood by a pillar and made a covenant before the Lord, &c. and all the people stood to the covenant. This is your duty, not only to take the Covenant, but to stand to the Covenant; and to stand to it, maugre all opposition to the contrary. According as we reade, 2 Chron. 15.12, 13. And they entred into covenant to seek the Lord God of their fathers, &c. That whosvever would not seek the Lord God of Israel, should be put to death, when ther small or great, whether man or woman. For it is not the taking, but the keeping of the Covenant that will make you happy. God is stiled, A God keeping covenant, Deut. 9.4. Neh. 1.5. O that this might be the honour of this City! That we may fay of it, London is a City keeping covenant with God. Great and many are the bleffings entailed upon Covenant-keepers. Exod. 19.5,6. Now therefore if you will obey my voice indeed, and keep my covenant, then you shall be a peculiar treasure unto me above all people: for all the earth is mine: And ye shall be unto me a kingdome of Priests, and an holy Nation, &c. Pfal. 25.10. All the paths of the Lord are mercy and truth unto such as keep his covenant, &c. Psal. 15.4.

There are three Covenants I shall perswade you in an especiall manner to stand to.

1. The covenant you made with God in Baptisme. A Christian (faith Chrysostome) should never step out of doors, or lye down in his bed, or go into his closet, but he should remember that word Abrenuncio; that is, He should remember the time when he did renounce the Devill and all his works. Oh let us not forget that which we ought alwayes to remember! Let us remember to keep that Covenant, as ever we defire God should remember us in mercy at the great day.

2. The covenants which we have made unto God in our afflicti-2. The covenantswe ons. Famous is that passage of Pliny in one of his Epistles to one that defired rules from him how to order his life aright. I will inour affli-

(faith he) give you one rule which shall be instead of a thousand; Vt tales esse perseveremus sani, quales nos futuros esse prositemur infirmi. That we should persevere to be such when we are well, as me promise to be when we are sick. A sentence never to be forgotten. The Lord help us to live accordingly.

3. The covenant which you are to take this day. The happinesse or misery of England doth much depend upon the keeping or breaking of this Covenant. If England keep it, England by keep-Covenant, ing covenant shall stand sure, according to that text, Ezek. 7.14. If England break it, God will break England in pieces. If England sleight it, God wil sleight England. If England forsake it. God will forfake England. And this shall be written upon the Tombo of perishing England: Here lieth a Nation that hath broken the covenant of their God. Remember what you have heard this day.

Epecially to keep, I. The Covenant we made to God in baptisme.

have made ation.

3. The folemne League &

That it is the brand of a Reprobate to be a Covenant-breaker, &c. It is the part of a Foole to vow, and not to pay his vowes. And God hath no delight in the sacrifice of fools. Better not volv, then to vow and not to pay, Eccl. 5.4,5. It is such an high prophanation of Gods Name, as that God cannot hold a Covenant-breaker guiltlesse. It is perjury, injustice, spirituall adultery, sacriledge, &c. And the very lifting up of your hands this day (if you do not set heart and hand on work to keep covenant) will be sufficient mitnesse against you at the great day. We reade, Gen. 31.44,45,46, 48,49,52,53. That facob and Laban entred into a covenant, and took a heap of stones, and made them a Witnesse, & said, This heap is a Witnesse, &c. And they called the name of the place Mizpah: The Lord watch between me and thee, &c. The God of Abraham judge betwixt us, &c. Such is your condition this day. You enter into Covenant to become the Lords, and to be valiant for his truth, and against his enemies. And the very stones of this Church shall be witnesse against you, if you break covenant. The name of this place may be called Mizpah. The Lord will watch over you for good, if you keep it, and for evill, if you break it. And all the curfes contained in the book of the Covenant shall light upon a willing Covenant-breaker. The Lord fasten these meditations and foul-awaking confiderations upon your hearts. The Lord give you grace to keep close to the Covenant; & in keeping of it to keep God and a good conscience, weh are both lost by covenant-breaking.

There are fix things which I shall perswade you unto in pursu- 6. Things ance of your Covenant.

1. To be humbled for your own fins, and for the fins of the in purfu-Kingdome; & more especially, Because we have not as we ought our Covevalued the inestimable benefit of the Gospel, that we have not labou- nant. red to receive Christ in our hearts, nor to walk worthy of him in our lives, which are the causes of other sins and transgressions so much abounding among st us. Gospel-sins are greater then legall-sins, and will bring Gofpel-curses, which are greater then legall-curses. And therefore let us be humbled according to our Covenant for all our Gospel-abominations.

2. You must be ambitious to go before one another in an example of reall reformation. You must swear vainly no more, be drunk no more, break the Sabbath no more, &c. You must remember what David saith, Pfal. 50, 16. But unto the wicked God saith, What hast thou to do to take my covenant in thy mouth? seeing thou hatest instruction, and castest my words behinde thee. To sin willingly after we have sworn not to sin, is not only to sin against a Commandement, (as I have said) but to sin against an Oath; which is a double iniquity, and will procure a double damnation. And he that takes a Covenant to reform, and yet continueth unreformed, his Covenant will be unto him as the bitter water of jealousse was to the woman guilty of adultery, which made her belly to swell and thigh to rot, &c. Numb. 5.22.

to be done

3, You must be careful to reform your families according to your covenant, and the example of foshua, and facob, and the godly Kings forementioned.

4. You must endeavour according to your places and callings to bring the churches of God in the three Kingdoms to the nearest conjunction & uniformity in religion, &c. O bleffed Vnity! how comes it to passe that thou art so much sleighted and contemned? Was not unity one of the chief parts of Christs prayer unto his Father when he was here upon earth? John 17.11. Is not unity amongst Christians one of the strongest arguments to perswade the world to believe in Christ, John 17.21. Is it not the chiefe desire of the holy Apostles, that we should all speak the same things, and that there should be no divisions among st us, but that we be perfectly joyned together in the same mind & in the same judgement? I Cor. I. 10. Phil. 2.1,2,3,&c. Is not unity the happinesse of heaven? Is it not the happinesse of a City to be at unity within it self? Is it not a good & pleasant thing for brethren to dwell together in unity? How comes it then to passe that this part of the Covenant is so much forgotten? The Lord mind you of it this day! And the Lord make this great & famous City a City of holine fe, and a City at unity within it (elf! For if unity be destroyed, purity will quickly also be destroyed. The Church of God is una as well as sancta. It is but one church as wel as is it a holy church. And Jefus Christ gave some to be Apostles, some Evangelists, some Prophets, some Pastors and Teachers, &c. till we all come to the unity of the faith. Not only to the purity, but to the unity of the faith. The government of Christ is appointed for the keeping of his Church in unity as well as purity. Those things which God hath joyned together, let no man put asunder. That government which doth not promote unity as well as purity, is not the government of Christ. Oh the misery of that kingdom where Church-divisions are nourished and fomented! A kingdome, or a church, divided against it self cannot stands

Would it not be a fad thing to fee twelve in a family, and one of them a Presbyterian, another an Independent, another a Brownist, another an Antinomian, another an Anabaptist, another a Familist, another for the Prelatical government, another a Seeker, another a Papist, and the tenth it may be an Atheist, the eleventh a Jew, & the twelftha Turk? The Lord in his due time heal our divisions, & make you his choice instruments according to your places, that the Lord may be one, & his name one in the three kingdoms!

5. You must endeavour in pursuance of your Covenant to extirpate Popery, Prelacy, Heresie, Schisme, Prophanenesse, What-soever shall be found contrary to sound doctrine and the power of godlinesse, c. That so this City may be a City of holinesse, unity, and a City of truth, as is prophecied of Jerusalem, Zach. 8.3. Oh blessed truth, how is it that thou art so lightly esteemed on! Is not truth more precious then gold, and more to be prized then Rubies? Are we not to buy the truth and sell it not? Did not Christ come into the world to bear witnesse to the truth? Did not grace and truth come by Iesus Christ? Is not Christ the way, the truth, and the life? How is it then that truth is fallen in the streets, and equity cannot enter? how is it that truth faileth, and he that departeth from evill maketh himself a prey? Esuy 59.14,15. How is it that men bend their tongues like bowes for lies, but they are not valiant for the Jer. 93. truth upon earth? The Lord make you lovers of truth and peace.

6. You must take heed of that cursed monster of Indifferency & Neutrality. Study these six texts of Scripture, Judg. 5.23. Judg. 8. 6,7.16. Deut. 23, 3,4. Jer. 48.10. Mat. 12.30. Mar. 8.38. Othat these Scriptures were written in your hearts with a pen of iron! A Neuter in Gods cause is a lukewarm Christian, whom God will spue out of his mouth; he is a dead member of Christs body, fit to be cut off. Oh that the Lord would raife up your hearts this day (Right Honourable, Right Worshipfull, and Well beloved) to a high pitch of zeal for him and his cause! God hath made you instruments to do wonderfall things for this kingdom: you have been the Saviours of the kingdom; you have vindicated the liberties of the Parliament, and your own liberties; and the Kings army by your means in a great measure is brought very low. But yet as Christ said to the young man, so do I to you: There is one thing Wanting: and that one thing is the one thing necessary; The Church is unsetled, Discipline unerected, Religion is tottering. For Zions sake hold not your peace, and for ferusalems sake keep not silence, stir up your real and your strength. Use your interest and your power in an orderly, and regular, and peaceable way according to your places. And what can you not do?

You have ventured one arrow already, shoot another, and if that miscarry, shoot another, you will speed at last. He that cuts down a tree though he cuts it not down at the first and second blow, yet the first and second and third blow prepare to the speeding blom, to that blow that cuts it down. You have delivered one petition already, deliver another, and if that speed not, deliver another. The speeding petition will come at last. In a word, doe your duties according to your oath, and according to your capacities, (and all in a regular way) and leave the issue to God. But some will say, How shall I doe to get up my heart to this high pitch that I may be a Covenant-keeper?

Ans. I will propound these four helps. Four helps

1. Labour to be always mindefull of your Covenant, according to keep the to that text, I Chron. 16. 15. God is always mindfull of his Covenant. It was the great fin of the people of Israel, that they League & were unmindfull of the Covenant, Neh. 9. 17. They first forgat the Covenant, and afterwards did quickly for sake it. He that forgets the Covenant, must needs be a Covenant breaker. Let us therefore remember it, and carry it about us as quotidianum argumentum, and quotidianum munimentum. First, let us make the Covenant a daily argument against all sin & iniquity, and when we are tempted to any fin, let us fay, I have sworn to for sake my old iniquities: and if I commit this sin, I am not onely a Commandement-breaker, but an Oath-breaker; I am perjur'd. I have weapon to sworn to reform my family, and therefore I will not suffer a wicked person to tarry in my family. I have sworn against neutrality, and indifferency, and therefore I will be zealous in Gods cause, &c. Secondly, let us make this Covenant a daily muniment, and armour of defence, to beat back all the fiery darts of the Devill. When any one tempts thee by promife of preferment to doe contrary to thy Covenant, or by threatning to ruine thee for the hearty pursuing of thy Covenant, here is a ready answer; I am sworn to doe what I due, and if I doe otherwife, I am a perjured wretch. This is as a wall of braffe to refift any dart that shall be shot against thee for well-doing according to thy Covenant. Famous is the story of Hamibal, which he told to King Antiochus, when he required aid of him against the Romanes. When I was 9 years old (said he) my Father carried me to the Altar, and made me take an Oath to be an inreconciliable foe to the Romanes. In pursuance of this Oath, I have maged war against them these 36 years. To keep this Oath I have left my Country, and am come to feek aid at your hands, which if you deny, I will travell over all the World to finde out some enemies to the Romane State. Odi, odioque sum Romanis. If an Oath did so mightily operate in Hannibal, let the Oath you are to take this day, work as powerfully upon you; And make your Oath an argument to oppose personall fins, and family fins, and to oppose Heresie, Schisme, and all profanenesse, and to endeavour to bring the Churches of God in the three Kingdomes to the neerest conjunction, and uniformity, &c. And let this Oath be armour of proof against all temptations to the contrary. And know this one thing, that if the Covenant be not a daily argument and muniment against sin, it will become upon your breaking of it, quotidianum testimonium, & aternum opprobrium. A daily witnesse against you, as the book of the law was, Deut. 31, 26. and an everlasting shame and reproach unto you and yours.

The Covenant must be a daily argument against sin, & a daily beat back all temptations.

2. Let us have high thoughts of the Covenant. Actions, and affections follow our apprehensions. If thy judgement be beleapred with a corrupt opinion about the Covenant, thy affections and actions will quickly be beleapred also. And therefore you ought to endeavour according to your places, that nothing be spoken, or written, that may tend to the prejudice of the Covenant.

3. You must not take it in your owne strengths, but in Gods strength. As it is taken in Gods presence, so it must be taken with Gods assistance, with selfe-abasing, selfe-denying, selfe-humbling bearts; you must take it joyfully and tremblingly; rejoycing in God and in his strength, and yet trembling for tear of your own unworthinesse and unstedsastnesse in the Covenant.

4. You must take heed of the cursed sin of selfe-love, which is placed in the fore-front as the cause of all the Catalogue of sins here named; Because men are lovers of themselves, therefore they are covetous, &c. and therefore they are Covenant-breakers. A selfe-seeker cannot be a Covenant-keeper; this is a sinne that you must hate as the very gates of hell.

And this is the second sin that I promised in the beginning of my Sermon to speak on: but the time and your other occasions will not permit. There is a naturall selfe-love, and a divine selfe-love, and a sinfull selfe-love. This sinfull self-love is when we make our felves the last end of all our actions, when we so love our selves, as to love no man but our selves, according to the Proverb, Every man for himself, &c. When we pretend God and his glory, and the common good: but intend our selves, and our own private gain and interest; when we serve God upon politique designes; Of this sinfull self-love the Apostle speaks, Phil. 2.21. For all seek their own, and not the things of Fesus Christ. And if we had a window to look into the hearts of most people, we should finde their hearts made up all of this Idolatrous selfe-love. Men deal with God as it is reported of Cnidius a great Architectist, who building a sumptuous Watch-Tower for the King of Egypt (a Tower to discover the rocks to Mariners) such was his crast, that he caused his own name to be engraven'd upon a stone in the wall, in great letters, and over that stone he caused it to be plaistered with lime and mortar, and upon the outlide wrote the name of the King of Egypt, as pretending that he should have all the honour. But here was his cunning: he knew that in time the water would confume (as it did) the plaistering, and afterwards his own name and memory should appear and abide. Just so doe most people deal with God and with his religion, and with the publique. If we looke without doors, we shall fee nothing written but pro bono publico, &c. All their discourse is for the better promoting of Godlilinesse: but if we could look within, we should see written, Pro bono privato, &c. All their designes are for to promote themfelves. They monopolize and ingrosse all to themselves, as if made for themselves. Where this sinfull self-love dwels, there dwels no love to God, no love to thy brother, no love to Church nor State. This sinfull self-love is the Caterpillar that destroyeth Church and Common-wealth. It is from this finfull felf-love that the publique affairs drive on so heavily, and that Church-government is not setled, and that our Covenant is so much neglected. Of this fin I cannot now speak : but when God shall offer opportunity, I shall endeavour to uncase it before you. In the mean time, the Lord give you grace to hate it as hell it felf.
